Chaperone Policy

Version 2.0 · Reviewed February 2026

This policy protects both patients and staff during intimate examinations and procedures.

A trained chaperone is offered to every patient for any intimate examination.

The patient's right to decline a chaperone, or to request one, is recorded in the notes.

Chaperones are trained staff members; family or friends are not asked to act as chaperones.

Any concerns raised during an examination are documented and escalated appropriately.
